HELPING TO MAKE YOUR PRACTICE MORE PRODUCTIVE

PERIODONTAL COMPLICATIONS: Prevention and Management

Successful outcome of periodontal disease management requires a series of optimal judgements and clinical initiatives. Despite well-established principles for the management of periodontal disease, patients' treatment outcomes occasionally fall short of desired goals and objectives.

This introductory lecture will highlight fundamental periodontal concepts and shed light on the common errors in their clinical application. Time will also be devoted to the discussion of surgical complications arising in the process of surgical management of periodontitis, soft tissue deficits, and edentulism.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

- 1) To review errors and complications encountered during the management of periodontal disease.
- 2) To review errors and complications encountered during periodontal surgery and soft tissue grafting.
- 3) To review errors and complications encountered during implant treatment.

David Chvartzaid is a 2001 graduate of the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto. He completed two years of hospital residencies in New York City – at the New York Hospital (Queens) and at the New York Presbyterian Hospital (Cornell).

David earned his specialty designations in Prosthodontics in 2011 and Periodontics in 2010. He is an assistant professor at the Department of Periodontics, University of Toronto. David is a reviewer for the International Journal of Prosthodontics and the International Journal of Oral and Maxillofacial Implants. His private practice at Barrie Prosthodontics successfully merges prosthodontic, implant surgical and periodontal approaches to address patients' needs. David lectures extensively to study clubs and professional organizations and is pursuing a career combining private practice, research and clinical education.
